A Giving Circle Supporting Art and Social Justice in Los Angeles

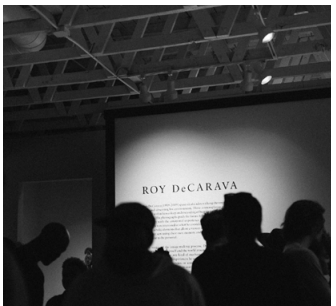

The Angeles Art Fund is a giving circle that connects like-minded art patrons through direct engagement with artists, curators and non-profit spaces in Los Angeles and offers financial support to projects that reflect an interest in social justice.

For over five years, our non-profit grantees have given artists and curators opportunities to create a dialogue with the citizens of Los Angeles through innovative fine art presentations or exhibitions, that speak to or challenge the issues of our day.

OUR GRANTEES

Our goal is to make annual grants to arts non-profits and artist-led projects. At the end of the year, our donors meet to vote on grant applications and host a celebratory event announcing our grantees.

OUR EVENTS

Engaging discussion and involvement with artists and programs throughout Los Angeles

Our mix of lunchtime and evening events with 4-5 organizations per year, focus on exposing our giving circle members to dynamic partner organizations which the group will consider for a year-end grant. Our events take place in non-profit exhibition spaces, on-site public art projects or in private homes, where curators and artists discuss past and future projects.

AAF + ARTADIA

In 2020, AAF partnered with Artadia to establish the inaugural Angeles Art Fund Artadia Award. We share a common goal of supporting exceptional artists as they build their practice and facilitate socially impactful work.

Congratulations to Paul Sepuya, who has been selected as the 2021 recipient, and our previous 2020 recipient Suné Woods!
